

Dr Paul Fockens is Professor and Chair of Gastroenterology, Hepatology and Gastrointestinal Endoscopy at the Faculty of Medicine of the Universiteit van Amsterdam, Netherlands.

Pr Fockens is internationally well known for his participation in postgraduate training worldwide. His professional career is largely focus on flexible endoscopy, partly involving early diagnosis of malignant tumors and their predecessors. Dr. Fockens' research interests also lie in endoscopic therapy for late stage of malignant tumors.

He is former President of the Dutch Society of specialists in gastroenterology and hepatology (Nederlands Genootschap van Maag-Darm-Leverartsen) and is President of the European Postgraduate Gastro-Surgical School.