

Pietro Fusaroli is Associate professor of Gastroenterology at University of Bologna, Italy and Attending physician at Gastroenterology Unit, University of Bologna at Castel S. Pietro Terme Hospital (AUSL di Imola), Italy.

His main interest is on endoscopic ultrasonography and conducts Clinical research on various fields of application of endoscopic ultrasonography, including enhancement with contrast agents (Sonovue); long-term follow up of gastric lymphoma.

Additionally, his Academic commitments and scientific societies he is member of include Founder Member and Treasurer of the Italian Club of Endosonography; International Member of the American Gastroenterological Association (AGA); Member of the Italian Society of Gastroenterology (SIGE) and Member of the Italian Society of Digestive Endoscopy (SIED).